

To sum up, if Greece were to exit the euro, the only way to contain the crisis would be a radical reversal in euro governments' strategy

